Game Rules

Welcome to WattWorks!
This interactive set of conversation cards helps you and your team take meaningful steps toward building a strong and resilient energy community.

Whether you're just starting out or already working with an engaged group, WattWorks serves as a talk trigger and practical guide to support you through each stage, from first ideas to collective action and long-term impact.

How does WATTWORKS work?

WattWorks is an interactive set of cards, divided into three colours, each representing a different phase in the development of your energy community.

Phase 1: Awareness

For individuals taking their first steps towards sustainable energy.

Phase 2: Exploring Renewable Energy Opportunities

For newly formed or existing groups who want to explore how they can jointly develop renewable energy initiatives.

Phase 3: Collaboration

For newly formed or existing communities that already have a clear direction and are ready to put their plans into action.

Each card contains a reflective or strategic question to help you think more deeply about key aspects of your journey. Some cards also refer to additional tools or resources, just scan the QR code to explore more online.

The questions follow a logical structure and are grouped by theme. You don’t need to go through every card, simply choose the ones most relevant to your situation.

How to use the game:

1) Choose your phase:
Pick the colour of cards that best matches your current situation.

2) Draw a card:
The cards follow a clear, chronological structure that builds step by step. Read the question out loud and discuss it as a group, with or without guidance from a CIRCUS trainer.

3) Reflect and discuss:
Use the question as a starting point for an open and honest dialogue. Make sure to check the perspective from which you should answer, it's clearly written above the question.

4) Explore extra resources:
Some cards refer to useful tools to support your next steps. A short manual is provided in WattWorks itself. For the full version, scan the QR code to go online.

The cards also point to additional methodologies, which you can explore further at: circus.nweurope.eu/tools or by scanning the QR code.

5) Write down your insights:
Keep track of key points or decisions so you can refer back to them later.

6) Move on to the next phase:
When you've addressed the key questions in your current phase, move on to the next cards to keep growing your energy community step by step.

Where and when to use WATTWORKS?

WattWorks is designed to be played in a group setting, such as:

- During meetings
- In workshops
- In informal team conversations

By asking the right questions at the right time, you lay a strong foundation for your energy community and increase your chances of long-term success.

Grab the cards, start the conversation, and build a sustainable future together!

Good luck and most of all, enjoy playing WATTWORKS!
